During the 2024 Colloquy, our time together will consider one of the most pressing global issues — the climate. Looking through the lenses of Christian faith experiences, spirituality in various forms, theology, biblical interpretation, science, activism, and more, we seek to engage with the climate crisis, finding in our faith new hope during times of despair. On our journey there we seek to be helpful for clergy & laypeople, congregations & communities, people of many backgrounds, other living creatures, the habitats and eco-systems that we share and the Earth itself. Using the word crisis intentionally acknowledges what many concerned in the world are declaring: that our only home, the Earth, has troubles and we must identify and implement ways to make positive and tangible impacts. As people of faith, this crisis also is a spiritual matter and imperative for us to address.

As usual, the Colloquy will gather in historic Craigville Village on Cape Cod. Celebrating its 40th anniversary this year, the Colloquy brings together creative church leaders along with pastor and lay leaders, for a week of serious conversation and vacation fun. Tuesday-Wednesday-Thursday begin with Morning Prayer in a monastic style with hymns, Taizé chant and silence. Additionally there is an opening eucharist service on Monday afternoon, a Taizé evening service on Wednesday and a closing Renewal of Baptismal Vows on Friday morning. Presentations and small-group conversations occur in the morning and the evening; the afternoons are free for relaxing on the famous Craigville Beach or exploring nearby attractions on the Cape. Partial scholarships are available for students and anyone who has a financial need. Continuing education certificates are available for clergy. Come and be inspired, refreshed and renewed!
